

JUST IMAGINE...

BIO – Lori Fischer

Lori was born and raised in northwest Iowa. She grew up as a middle child of nine. She started her educational journey by completing her associate's degree at Northwest Iowa Community College; she then went on to complete her Bachelor of Science – Psychology, with Business Administration, and finally wrapped up with a Master of Human Relations, emphasis in diversity.

Lori has traveled the world to experience life firsthand, which helps her when in front of groups or coaching 1-on-1. She connects by being empathetic, sharing her story of resilience, hope, and optimism to support a diverse population and create application-focused learning. At age 29, she had an existential crisis, where she had just started in a new career with a wireless telephone company and was on a 7-year path to great success, both career-wise and financially, when she was simultaneously hit with a life-altering blow, having her parents pass away together instantaneously in a car accident. This caused her to reevaluate who she was, the effect she was having on others, and what made her soul most happy. During the course of nearly 20 years, she has found her creative genius and coaching voice through becoming a personal development coach and business consultant and honoring the artist inside! Lori currently lives in the greater Huntsville, Alabama, area. Her goal in life is to help individuals, groups, and even organizations to find their unique paths to success, challenge them to meet their potentials, live a life creatively, and show up big in this world!
